HUNTER SHOT WHEN MISTAKEN FOR DEER TODAY

Winslow, Nov. 18.—One doesn't have to go into Maine to be mistaken for a deer and shot as Selden Soules, of Tolland, Mass., in the county hospital here, will testify to if he receives here from a charge of buckshot and slugs he received in his groin from the gun of Lawrence Carter of the same place. The open week for shooting deer in Berkshire county, Mass., just over the line from here, opened this morning, and long before daylight there were hundreds of hunters in the woods.

The hunters were supposed to wear red hats and coats for protection against being taken for a deer and they are supposed to use only small shot in their guns. Soules failed to wear the red and Carter failed to have small shot cartridges and also to distinguish in the early dawn between a man and a deer. Soules was brought here in an automobile after he had been attended in the woods by Dr. Howard Ward who was also after deer. His condition is said by hospital physicians to be serious.

SEVERE CHECK GIVEN ADVANCE OF BULGARIANS

Repulse of Balkan Troops in Attack on Constantinople's Last Line of Defense Has Cause Ottoman Diplomats to Become More Stiff in Their Attitude on Peace Terms

Vienna, Nov. 18.—Turkey's claim that the Bulgarians have at last suffered a severe check in their advance on Constantinople was regarded here as corroborated in several convincing ways.

More to the point than any other one thing was the stiffening of the Ottoman diplomatic representatives at the various European capitals in their attitude concerning the peace terms. Hitherto, since the success of the Turkish defeat between Mustafa Pasha and Chatalja, the Sultan has fairly clamored for intervention by the powers. Today, while it was still admitted that he expects to make many concessions to secure a cessation of hostilities it was intimated that does not feel there was need for particular haste about it.

Finally, the story that the Turks repulsed Bulgarians' attempt, Saturday, to batter down the last line of the Turkish capital's defenses rested alone on Turkish authority but also on that of disinterested foreigners in the city.

Assuming it to be true that Czar Ferdinand's forces have been effectually stopped, it was agreed here that the allies will have to modify their demands and make peace with the Turks in short order.

Greece has not completely exhausted its resources but Bulgaria, Serbia and Montenegro have sent every available fighting man to the front. They cannot afford to remain in the field. And winter is now rapidly closing in throughout the Balkans. The Bulgarian force before Constantinople must either advance or fall back. It will be impossible for it to remain many more days encamped in the open.

Should it be compelled to retreat and await spring for a resumption of the campaign, the Turks will be given ample time to reorganize their shattered European forces and resume warfare when the weather again makes fighting possible. The enemy's numerical superiority.

It was argued from all this that the allies henceforward will be anxious to bring the struggle to a close as speedily as possible. Nor was it deemed likely that the Turks, for all of their reported temporary success, would be backward about accepting any reasonable offer. The cholera epidemic behind the Chatalja lines has reached such proportions that, according to the testimony of foreigners in Constantinople, the safety of Europe is threatened.

Twelve thousand Turkish soldiers were reported, today, in a special to the Frankfurt Gazette, to have died of the disease in the past week. The wildest panic cannot picture the scenes along the defense lines, the Gazette's correspondent asserts. Soldiers fall dead with guns in their hands. The railroad is lined with their corpses.

Dogs would not be so brutally treated in a civilized country. Dying men are kicked from train to train. Three thousand stricken men, brought into San Stefano in box cars, were left without medical attention or even food for many hours, begging piteously for only a few canteens of water. In several instances, according to the Gazette, the Bulgarians have been surprised at the cessation of resistance by the defenders' entrenchments where they have previously had hard fighting and taken them to find them filled with dead and dying Turkish cholera victims.

Follow Arrests of Workers, Caused by Revelations of Young Boys, Who Are Held as Witnesses

Portland, Ore., Nov. 18.—Following several suicides as the result of a series of arrests caused by revelations by young boys at the Y. M. C. A., the police, today, are closely guarding men who were taken into custody in connection with the investigation of the boys' story.

Secretary Furrows the whole investigation but it is known that 14 men, most of them prominent in business or the professions, have been detained and that several boys, to whose delinquency they are alleged to have contributed, are held as witnesses. One man wanted in connection with the affair is said to have left the city.

W. H. Allen, one of the most prominent Y. M. C. A. workers in the city, is dying in a local hospital as the result of poison taken when he learned his name was connected with the affair. He made a final statement in which he asserted he could not bear the disgrace of being in any way connected with the affair.

Many rumors are about now.

BRAKEMAN KILLED IN PUTNAM WRECK

Blame For Accident Charged to Flagman Who Has Vanished

Putnam, Nov. 18.—One of the worst railroad wrecks that this section of Connecticut has seen in years, occurred about three-quarters of a mile west of Putnam station on the main line of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad shortly after 12 o'clock yesterday morning, when the engine of the extra 414 freight from East Hartford, bound for Worcester, Mass., crashed into the rear of extra 410 freight, also from East Hartford and bound in the same direction. The latter freight train had stopped on the hill for the engine to start.

One man was killed, Harry E. Brooks, of East Hartford, head brakeman on the extra 414, who was riding on the engine cab and who jumped with Engineer Walter Forbes of Boston, and his fireman. Brooks' skull was crushed. John Shaw of Putnam, 8 C., was the only one injured. He was in the caboose of extra 410 when the engine piled into him and that he came out alive was talked of last night as being nothing short of a miracle. Fifteen loaded freight and coal cars were demolished.

Flagman Gallagher of the extra 410 is said to be missing since the wreck. When extra 410 stopped near the top of the hill, Gallagher was sent back to flag extra 412 that was following. From the account of Engineer Forbes, Gallagher was only about ten car lengths away when he came along. He said he was going about ten miles an hour and was unable to make time to stop in time to avert the accident.

St. Louis, Nov. 18.—The jury in the case of E. G. Lewis, the publisher, formerly a resident of Bridgeport, Conn., charged with using the mails to defraud, reported to Judge Willard, today, that it was unable to agree on a verdict and was discharged.

MAN HELPLESS WHILE TRUCK CRUSHES LEG

Caught beneath the wheels of a heavily loaded truck he had been driving for a local coal company, W. Hoffman, 55 River street, broke his left leg below the knee before assistance could be rendered. Dr. C. H. Pratt, who responded to an emergency call, after "first aid" treatment, took his patient to St. Vincent's hospital for further treatment.

POLICE INSPECTION ORDERED FOR NOV. 21

An inspection of all uniformed members of the Bridgeport police force has been ordered by the Board of Police Commissioners. Supt. Birmingham today issued instructions that all members report at headquarters in full uniform, consisting of overcoats, belts, caps and regulation gloves prior to 1:45 on the afternoon of Nov. 21.

COPS GENEROUS TO STRICKEN FELLOWS

Both have been seriously ill for some time and the sympathy of the department was expressed in this substantial manner after Police Commissioner F. D. Baker had presented their cases for consideration before the Police Board meeting on Friday night.

DISSOLUTION OF BATHTUB TRUST IS NOW UPHELD

Supreme Court Hands Down Decision Against Standard Sanitary Co. and 12 Allied Concerns

Washington, Nov. 18.—The Supreme Court of the United States today upheld the decree of dissolution against the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company and allied concerns, known as the "bathtub" trust, decided by the Federal court of Maryland, the trust having been ordered to dissolve as a combination in restraint of trade, despite its contention that the decree was an invasion of its patent rights.

The decision was regarded by government "trust busters" as the most important since the Standard Oil dissolution.

The entire case hinged on the right of the owner of a patented article to make such use of it as to create a monopoly in the manufacture and sale of another unpatented article.

It was on Nov. 27, 1911, that the Maryland Federal court sustained the government's contention that the Standard Sanitary Company and 12 other allied concerns and a number of individuals were guilty of monopoly of trade. The defendants appealed on the grounds that their patent rights were invaded by the dissolution decree.

In affirming the decree of the lower court, that the trusts' manufacturers and jobbers license agreements by which it fixed uniform prices and mode of sale of enameled ware articles were unlawful, the Supreme Court declared that the defendants' ownership of the patent on a tool did not justify them in conducting a monopoly in trade.

Whether the patented tool figured in the case or not, the court held, they were violating the anti-trust law.

Weather Indications

Conditions favor for this vicinity generally fair weather and not much change in temperature.
